First Project Meeting

We held our first meeting in Cyprus where we planned the first steps in our project to support individuals with autism in independent living.

Our Progress So Far

We carried out research in five different EU countries to assess the challenges faced by young adults with autism as they transition to independent living.

The research will help us to develop more effective tools to support these individuals as the project progresses.

What's Next?

Our next goal will be the development of an innovative training toolkit. This toolkit will include a curriculum, handbook, and virtual reality (VR) game.

The curriculum and handbook will be used by adult educators to provide practical training on minimizing support needed in the home.

The VR game will simulate real-life scenarios, allowing users to practice adapting their home environment to their specific needs.
